DECISIONS REACHED IN FEW CASES

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT HANDS DOWN IMPORTANT RULES.

SETTING OF RETAIL PRICE FOR FOOD IS KNOCKED OUT TODAY

Privately Owned Vessels Which Were Taken in War Are Not Liable for Collision.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The United States supreme court today held that the system of resale price maintenance enforced by many manufacturers of widely advertised products, is an unlawful interference with free commerce. The decision was handed down in the case of the Beechnut Packing Company, which had appealed to the supreme court of the United States to restrain the federal trade commission from enforcing an order served upon the company to abandon the system.

The New York circuit court of appeals on March 8 1920 reversed the judgment of the federal trade commission and set aside its order directed against the Beechnut company. The commission charged that the Beechnut merchandising policy "embraced almost every objectionable device, except restrictive contracts to enforce the maintenance of trade prices fixed by the consumer on the various products to be marketed by wholesale and retail dealers throughout the country." The contention was contended enhanced prices and destroying competition. The decision of the court was made by Justice Day.

The gold importations netted a gain in Uncle Sam's gold supply of $687,000,000, as gold exports during the year totalled only $23,000,000.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 3.—The federal grand jury which returned an indictment against W. M. Bostwick, Sheriff W. H. Dyer and about 50 others, charging them with violating the prohibition laws, have been summoned before the district court tomorrow to testify how the indictments were secured.

An attempt by Bostwick in having a motion today that the indictment be quashed, alleged that no witnesses were before the grand jury that Assistant District Attorney Yerkes' statement of what he was prepared to prove was the only evidence the jury had and that Yerkes was in the grand jury room when the jury was deliberating.

Federal Judge Clayton stated that if the allegations as to Yerkes presence in the jury room during the deliberation was proved, he would quash the indictment. The other men named in the names of similar indictments would be affected, if the same procedure followed in their cases as is alleged occurred in Bostwick's.

OVERALLS BETTER THAN CARP'S TITLE

Georges Carpentier, who helped make Jack Dempsey say a big amount last fall, was made a nobleman January 1.

To honor Carp, the French government has promised a new decoration—the Order of Physical Education. Carp's title will be Officer. Descamps, his manager, will be made a Knight.

Apparently this elevates Carpentier to equal social standing with the Earl of Dublille or the Knights of the Golden Fleece.

The French are a subtle people, adverse and gust manners at delicate times. On the surface, this making requires the doorway to nobility appears to be 14-karat.

The Frenchman who conceived the scheme probably was kidding the nobility of France's low estimation of pugilists.

With a prizefighter's manager made a knight, we see the curve to which the ancient system of nobleness has been reduced. It is more startling than finding a Russian grand duke washing dishes in an American restaurant.

And yet, by curious coincidence, the originals of long lines of earls, counts and dukes got their titles by serving as prizefighters.

The queen surrounded herself with a bodyguard of 200 prizefighters. They kissed their swords, swore to defend the queen with their lives, in exchange, they were knighted.

The majority of titles and nobility had their origin in fighting physically worthwhile.

Titles are losing out as democracy gains control of the social system. Canada recently gave us a fine illustration when her people raised violent objections to the elevation of prominent Canadians to noble ranks, by the British crown.

Nobleness were the expression of destructive and parasitic forces that had life owing by keeping the people down.

The tide now runs in the other direction, with titles and medals conferred for constructive work. We have the Nobel prizes for each year's greatest literary, scientific, humanitarian and other contributions to the world.

We see inventors and engineers honored with international medals.

The overall is taking the place of the crown and coat-of-arms.

The Aristocracy of Public Service eclipses the knights, dukes, counts, barons, earls. That is progress.

John H. Clarke, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, urges cancellation of the loans Uncle Sam made to the allies. Unpaid interest has increased this debt to almost $10,000,000,000. Cancellation is not as easy as it sounds. It isn't merely a matter of sentiment. Money borrowed by the allies was raised largely by selling Liberty Bonds. When these bonds mature, Uncle Sam has to pay the buyers full face value, retiring the bonds. That would mean $10,000,000,000 additional taxation for Americans, to retire our bonds, if the allied war debts were cancelled.

A movie film that costs $200,000 to $300,000 to produce in our country can be turned out for $10,000 to $12,000 in Germany. A Senate committee hears that from Paul M. Turner of New York during tariff hearings. The movie people are on the wrong track. Their biggest protection against foreign competition is to make better pictures. If comparative production figures are as far out of line as Turner claims, raising the tariff on imported films from 30 per cent to the suggested 60 per cent would not make any great deal of difference. Movie competition is a matter of quality of product, with production costs and prices secondary.

Japan now has 2,600 movie theaters, with American films most popular. Many of these films give the Japs the wrong impression of us. But the more they see, as we are getting acquainted. Movies have greater possibilities than anything else, for breaking down boundaries and welding the world into friends. The movies of ultimately be the thing that will kill war by teaching people that human nature is much the same all over the world, with the same petty problems dogging us all. Wars are fought between governments, seldom between friends.

Ed Connolly, Boston boy, was so fond to skate with the gang. Afraid he'd break through the ice and drown, his mother set out to walk ice. Thought he had discovered Safety First—until he slipped. Now he is in hospital with a fractured hip. Disaster at skating seemed to be inevitable with Ed. His instinct told him so. Ever notice, there are certain events and conditions you see unable to dodge, no matter how hard you try? The study of the inevitable will be taken up by future philosophers. Is there a future life? Has suggestion pulling trouble to some people and taken and luck to others?

In Rome prices are 12,800 times higher than in 1914, says Ekonomicheskaya Zhizn. That is the sense of a Moscow newspaper, not a traveler. The situation over there is about the same as if you were paying $18,000 now for a dozen eggs in Daytona. Prices and wages in circulation follow each other. The Soviet has printed about six trillions of paper rubles. Its economists say that even this enormous sum isn't enough. They want to multiply it by seven and a half. Think of Russia when American prices seem a problem.

Only about a seventh of all commodities produced by American farms and factories is shipped abroad. Or put it this way—for eight trade dollars up 15 per cent of our total commerce. The difference between boom times and hard times, however, is only about 15 per cent. The figures match. Without foreign trade, business depression would be perpetual, or until we adjusted ourselves to consume everything we produce. The real trouble right now is in our home markets, not in export markets.

Nearly a third of our total exports in the last three years was foodstuff. Under three per cent of them went to Europe. American manufacturers are turning to Latin America and the Orient for new markets. The farmers can do that. His market hasn't moved. He's still in Europe. When European countries, financially, our farmers will be first to benefit.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Bill Bronson is guiding Virginia Tremont in her search in the Clearwater of northern Canada for her fiance, Harold Lounsbury, who disappeared there six years previously. Her fiance's uncle, Kenly Lounsbury, and a cook, Vesper, complete the party. Bill hopes to take advantage of the trip to seek further for the lost mine of his father, who was murdered by a traitorous partner. Bill saves Virginia from drowning in the cold flood waters of Grizzly River.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

They forced their way through the evergreen thickets of the river bank, walking up the stream toward the ford. He broke through the brushy barriers with the might of his body, he made a trail for her in the snow. The darkness deepened around them. The snow fell ever heavier.

But they conquered at last. Partly by the feel under his feet, partly by his woodsman's instinct, Bill kept to the moose trail that led from the ford to the cabin. And the man was waying, drunkenly, when he reached the door.

"There are blankets in there, plenty of 'em," he told her. "It's my main supply cabin. Spread some of them out and take off your wet clothing and get under the covers. I'll build a fire as fast as I can."

She turned to obey. She heard him take down an ax that had been left hanging on the cabin walls and heard his step in and snow as he began to cut into kindling some of the pieces of cordwood that were heaped outside the door. She undressed quickly, then lay shivering between the warm, heavy blankets.

In a moment the man faltered in, his arms heavy with wood. Then a match gleamed in the gloom. She watched him feed the fire with strange, heavy motions.

She dozed off, then wakened to find him sitting on the edge of her bed, holding a cup of some steaming liquid. He put his left arm behind her and lifted her up, then fed her spoonfuls of the hot liquid. She didn't know what it was, other than it contained whisky.

"Take some of it yourself," she told him at last.

He shook his head and smiled—a wistful yet manly smile that almost brought tears to her eyes.

In the course of that first hour after the disaster of the river, Lounsbury and Vesper had a chance to test the steel of which they were made.

For one brief ten seconds Lounsbury sat upon his horse and simply stared in wide horror. Then he half-fainted, half-fell from the saddle, and followed by Vesper started running down the river bank, hopelessly to the right of Virginia and Bill. Almost at once they after the two and the darkness got into his eyes and appalled him.

"They're lost," he cried. "They're lost." he cried. "There's not a chance on earth to get 'em out."

Vesper, who knew it was a ... Lounsbury mourned. And ... the forest going farther. They haven't a chance on earth."

Power of Mind Emphasized By Dr. E. L. House

The second one of the lectures of Dr. E. L. House at the Congregational church was marked with increasingly large audience attendance, and seemingly universally gratifying satisfaction each succeeding lecture has been the rave in other cities where Dr. House has appeared.

The afternoon lecture Sunday was "Realizing God" and was attended by a large audience interested in hearing the evening Dr. House discussed "The Powers of suggestion and individual responsibility." He pointed out in illustrating this subject by referring to [illegible] incidents of every life which show the subtle force of the mysterious suggestion that seems to be natural to us.

In speaking of illness he said that there can be no physical healing in any sense unless the remedial power of a stronger suggestion overcomes the weaker, the method used. The power of the physician himself in which one has confidence is in itself a strong suggestion and the cures accomplished through medical healing and spiritual methods are all based upon this fact the remedial power of strong suggestion consciously kept in the patient's mind.

"Suggestion" was defined by Dr. House as "the thought that comes to us from another." He stated that our greatest power comes to us through suggestion, inspiration, aspiration, and ideals. Sometimes, he said, we get these through a book, sometimes through a friend, sometimes through the influence of a great character, and sometimes through the voice of God.

In speaking of the power of the various kinds of suggestion which come to one, some of which are worth while and some of which are not worth while, he drew a picture of a [illegible] church, and showed how the influence of the [illegible] suggestion [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] and

"Wild Bill" Endicott Today ... Directorship of the Local Auto Race Association

As the result of a special meeting of the directors of the Florida Auto Racing Association, held this forenoon in the office of the attorney, ... Selden, "Wild Bill' Endicott was ... the position of director of ... and which the latter will probably accept if satisfactory recompense ... can be arranged. Mr. Endicott agreed to stay over until Wednesday evening, when the directors and other members of the local association will meet to settle the terms with Mr. Endicott.

The assembly room of the Daytona Beach hotel was chosen as the place of meeting and the hour set at 7 p. m. Members are urgently requested to be present as promptly as possible as urgent business is to be transacted and plans made for the next racing event on Jan. 14.

Mr. Endicott is most enthusiastic about the possibilities of making a great success of the local racing proposition and is willing to give up entering future races if he acts in the capacity of promoter of events. This work will take considerable of his time in taking charge of the race course, and getting outside speed cars entered in the events. His success with the Jacksonville club is a guarantee that the Florida Auto Racing Association will experience remarkable progress under his direction.

Mr. Endicott is leaving two racing cars at the beach to participate in the events of Jan. 14.

Preceding the special meeting of the directors under call of the president, Guy G. Bailey, the finance committee held its meeting and made the report of collections for Monday, gate receipts $780, entries $50, total $830.

The prizes awarded totalled $925, a deficit of $95, due largely to the disagreeable wind which doubtless kept many from spending the afternoon on the beach.

The winners are as follows: Second event, Sparkman, $100; Andrews, $75; McCormick, $50. Third event, Sparkman, $100; Andrews, $75. Fourth event, Eubanks, $250; Endicott, $150; Bowles, $75; Andrews, $50.

The directors today authorized the president and treasurer to sign and execute checks for the prize money.

Power of Mind Emphasized By Dr. E. L. House

The second day of the lectures of Dr. E. L. House at the Congregational church, was marked with increasingly large audiences afternoon and evening, interest apparently growing with each succeeding lecure as has been the case in other cities where Dr. House has appeared.

The afternoon lecture Monday was "Realizing God" and was attended by a large and interested audience. In the evening Dr. House discussed "The Powers of suggestion and Auto-Suggestion" illustrating the subject by ordinary incidents of every life which show the subtle force of the various suggestions that come to the individual.

In speaking of illness he said that there can be no physical healing by any means unless the remedial power of a strongest suggestion accompanies the method used. The presence of the physician himself in whom one has confidence is in itself a strong suggestion and the cures accomplished through mental healing and spiritual methods are all based upon this fact—the remedial power of strong suggestion continuously kept before the patient's mind.

"Suggestion" was defined by Dr. House as "the thought that comes to us from another." He stated that suggestions may come to us from conversations, books, newspapers, advertisements, or in many other ways. Sometimes the powers of suggestions are strong enough to change the whole course of one's life, and we should be ruled by suggestion entirely if it were not for our will and reasoning powers. We can negative evil suggestions by auto-suggestion or self-determination.

Kinds of Suggestion

Dr. House went on to speak of the various kinds of suggestion which come to one, some of which are weakening, such as the ideas of inherited disease, superstition, influence of environment, and the continual keeping of a bereavement before one by wearing black, etc. He went on to say that there is no disease actually inherited although tendencies to certain diseases may be inherited, but these tendencies can be combatted successfully by proper suggestions. Superstitions are entirely out of harmony with the word of God.

In speaking of the power of suggestion as applied to children, Dr. House stated that in dealing with them people must suggest constructive things and not destructive ones. Children must be encouraged and not discouraged by such things as calling them lazy, good for nothing, etc. which will make them so. The thought that he is ill or nervous, should not be suggested, but instead there must come remedial power through strong suggestions. These may be given by the parent, the teacher, physician, healer or friend.

"Auto suggestions" was defined by Dr. House as "the conscious mind talking to the sub-conscious mind." If one wishes to succeed he must hold before him high ideals and the determination to win. God is constantly suggesting possibilities which persons may realize and attain. The Bible is full of great suggestions, and the church and Sabbath school provide an opportunity for the suggestions of great things through the teachers of the word."

This afternoon Dr. House discussed "The Bridge of Faith," and for this evening his subject will be "the Destroyers and Builders of Health." The lectures are free and the public invited.

Picture Machines Installed in All the Local Schools

Three moving picture machines for use in the Daytona schools have been purchased by the school trustees and will be placed in operation at an early date.

The machines were bought through the Divisional Education Society of America and have six hundred slides especially prepared for use in connection with the text books used in the local schools, the slides bearing directly upon the lessons taught through the tenth grade. They can be shown on a screen in a darkened room or on the blackboard in the daytime.

The plan of instructing students through the use of the motion picture machine and thus impressing upon them more forcibly the lessons taught is one of the latest education methods and is proving highly satisfactory wherever the system has been put into operation.

Dr. House Speaks at Noon Luncheon of Rotary Club

Dr. E. L. House, nationally known lecturer and author, delivered a very interesting address at the noonday luncheon of the Rotary club today.

Dr. House, who is delivering a series of lectures at the Congregational church, was introduced by Dr. D. L. Lewis, the pastor, and took as his subject "The Kind of Rotarian I Like." Dr. House is a Rotarian and consequently felt at home in addressing Rotarians, although a stranger in the city.

On behalf of the committee which had the Rotary golf tournament in charge, S. B. Crosby presented R. E. Stevens with a golf ball as the first prize. It had been announced that there was to be a booby prize awarded the worst player in the tournament. This prize, if given, would have been won by W. K. Tavel, but the committee ruled that Mr. Tavel's playing was so very poor that they would not give him even a booby prize, but would fine him a dollar.

WOMEN TO ERECT MARKER

LARAMIE, Wyo., Jan. 3.—Jacques Laramie Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has taken steps to erect a marker on the building in this city that was used as a court house in 1870 when the first woman jury ever empanelled sat and disposed of several cases.

The same building held the polling booths in 1872 when the first ballot ever cast by a woman was deposited.

When Dr. Carrie Chapman Catt, famous suffragist, was awarded the degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Wyoming here last June she was presented with a gavel made from a beam of the old court house. The gavel, upon Mrs. Catt's death will be turned over to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, "to form part of a collection of mementoes in connection with the winning of woman suffrage."

WAR FINANCE CORP. ADVANCES $9,359,000 AGRICULTURAL WORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The war finance corporation today announced additional government advances aggregating $9,359,000 for agricultural and live stock purposes. A total of 255 advances were approved by the corporation. In the week ending Dec. 31, the corporation approved a total of 317 advances amounting to $13,053,000.

DE VELERA AND HIS COMRADES ARE ABOUT READY TO GIVE UP

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—When Dail Eireann met today, it was privately reported that Eamonn DeValera and his lieutenants, who are opposing ratification of the peace treaty, admitted that they expected a landslide in favor of the Collins-Griffith faction, which supports the pact. The alleged admission of defeat by DeValera and his adherents was based on the strong growth of sentiment in favor of the pact during the Christmas recess of Dail.

KEMALITES PLANNING CHRISTIAN MASSACRE

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Rumors of an impending massacre of Christians in the Adana district, recalling the wholesale slaughter of Armenians twenty-five years ago, have reached Paris and are reported by the French press, though the French foreign office expresses confidence that no trouble will follow the withdrawal of French troops from that region under the Franco-Turkish agreement.

L'Homme Libre says it has received information from a very good source that a large number of Turks, filled with sentiments of vengeance, are entering Adana and that they have formed a secret society whose title is "National Vengeance." Letters have been seized proving that anti-Christian agitators have been sent to Adana and the surrounding region to stir up trouble and the Kemalist newspaper Yeni Adana has suddenly appeared printed in red ink.

FAR EASTERN QUESTION IS SERIOUS ONE

ALLIANCE AGAINST JAPAN WOULD BE RESULT OF FAILURE OF MEET.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—An alliance between Russia and China against Japan would be the inevitable result of failure on the part of the Washington conference to bring about an equitable adjustment of the Far Eastern problem.

This opinion was voiced today by both members of the Chinese delegation and by the spokesmen of the special mission from the so-called Far Eastern republic, which is here seeking an opportunity to present to the conference its case against Japan.

Should the four-power pact fail of ratification, and the Anglo-Japanese alliance remain in force, India probably would be included in such a Far Eastern alliance, it was pointed out, as under the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, Great Britain would be bound to come to the assistance of Japan.

"Both the Chinese and the Russian people have suffered greatly at the hands of the Japanese," said Boris E. Skvirsky, former minister of foreign affairs and spokesman of the delegation here.

"It must be admitted, however, that China has not suffered to the extent that Russia has. China has been compelled to submit to the economic domination of Japan, but she has never suffered from the slaughtering of her nationals as the Far Eastern republic has suffered during the past three years, and is suffering at this very moment."

Feeling among the Chinese people is bitter against Japan, just as it is in Siberia, M. Skvirsky pointed out.

"Nothing could be more natural than that these two peoples, if driven to the wall by the ambitious designs of the Japanese, should combine against a common enemy. It is early to talk of alliances, for we have every hope that the conference here will give us a hearing and take steps to rectify the wrongs that have been committed in the Far East. Alliances, too, are matters for governments to discuss and I do not know how the new Chinese government would feel on the subject. I do know how the Chinese people feel, however."

WHEAT MARKET IN BIG TUMBLE TODAY ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Jann 3.—The unsettled financial situation in Chicago had a drastic effect in the wheat market today, and sent prices tumbling downward. Heavy liquidation was on by houses representing eastern longs, and there was little short interest to offset the wave of selling. Price declines of more than 5 cents from the opening were the largest the market has known in weeks.

Corn and oats were weaker in some points with wheat, but price declines were less marked and the market less active.

Wheat closed 5¼ to 6⅝ cents lower; corn, 1⅜ to 1¾ cents lower; oats, 1⅛ to 1¼ cents lower. Provisions are steady.

Closing quotations:

Wheat—May, 17⅞ to 18⅛; July, 96 to 97¼.

Corn—May, 57⅛ to 57⅜; July, 58⅛.

Oats—January, 34¾; May, 37⅛; July, 38.

Pork—January, $8.60; March, $8.80; May, $8.97.

Ribs—January, $7.67; May, $7.87.

HAYS AT CABINET MEETING FOR FIRST TIME IN 3 WEEKS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Postmaster General Will Hays, back at the White House bright and early today for the first meeting of the cabinet which he has attended in three weeks.

"I'm feeling much better. Hays said, commenting on his recent illness. "And I am anxious to get back on the job again."

The Postmaster General said that he would have no statement to make concerning the rumor before he arrived to accept an executive position with large salary, but that he would be glad to see newspaper correspondents at the regular hour on January 11.

INQUIRY INTO THE PRICE OF RETAILS ABOUT COMPLETED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. The retail price inquiry ordered by Attorney General Daugherty was practically completed today and William J. Burns, director of the bureau of investigation, prepared to submit a digest of the reports gathered by investigators all over the country as a basis of possible action by the department of justice.

The reports tend to show that consumers are paying excessive prices at stores for most of the commodities dealt in the stores which the Attorney General is canvassing in the inquiry. There is a wide gulf between the producer's prices and the retail prices. Wholesale prices still remain at an unreasonably high level, it is reported.

While producers continue to feel the brunt of price reductions no material change can be seen in the price levels maintained by wholesalers and retailers. The average of all prices continue at a level of more than fifty percent above pre-war levels.

Food prices, with are around fifty per cent higher than in pre-war days, while the raw materials of these foods are being bought from farmers in many instances below the prices prevailing before the war.

Evidence gained by the attorney will be turned over to state authorities where the federal government lacks jurisdiction. The public will be also advised as soon as the data is closed by the inquiry.

BOOSTING OF PRICES IN LUMBER INDUSTRY BEING INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—Alleged understanding among lumber producers not only to maintain high price quotations, but artificially to boost prices artificially are being investigated by the department of justice, it was learned today.

Agents of Attorney General Daugherty are inquiring into reports of alleged conspiracies to defeat normal rules of trade by methods which operate to destroy competition.

With the country suffering from a house shortage and actually in need of 2,000,000 new homes, the attorney general believes that an emergency has arisen to justify drastic action by the government if sufficient evidence is found to proceed against lumber producers and building material manufacturers. The efforts of the department of justice along this line have been made difficult, it was state, by the fact that it may be impossible to take action under the anti-trust laws because of the nature of the business dealings involved.

Snyder Has the Best of Nelson in Clever Match

The first boxing event of this season was staged at the Armory on Monday evening before a large and appreciative audience that went home thoroughly satisfied with the entertainment. Many of the gentler sex were noted at the ringside who cheered just as heartily as the sterner sex and each seemed to have her favorite. Clean boxing in every contest was the feature, all rough stuff and other items that usually prevent the ladies from attending were missing and as long as clean exhibitions such as given last night are offered to the public, many men will not hesitate to bring their wives and sweethearts to the next contest.

Shortly before 8 o'clock the Elks band took up their position outside the door and played several pieces and the big armory soon filled up. At 8:30 the first bout, that between five colored boys in a battle royal, was put on and this proved to be of the old time variety of vaudeville boxing and a laughfest all in one. The boys went at it from the tap of the gong and it was not many minutes before the big boy in the striped shirt was declared to be the winner. A shower of coins of all denominations sounded like rain on a tin roof and then when the boys were told to pick it up another scramble followed that caused an endless amount of fun.

The preliminary bout between two colored boys, who were introduced as B. Watson and J. Clements wound up in the second round when only a few minutes after the bell, one of the boys fell to the floor doubled up and it seemed as if he had sustained a broken wrist. Medical examination, however, proved such was not the case and to those experienced in the game it looked as if a case of cold feet was the whole trouble. While these boys were at it they made a good showing, but Clements had his opponent worried from the very beginning.

The semi-final bout was scheduled to go six rounds between Johnny O'Leary of Bridgeport, Conn. and Joe Woods of Georgia. This bout was a humdinger but so one-sided that the referee, Jack Martin, stopped the contest in the third round giving the decision to O'Leary. Right here it must be said that O'Leary is one of the cleanest little fighters the writer has seen for many days and if ever he puts on the gloves again in this vicinity, he will have hundreds of enthusiastic rooters going to the limit just to see him. Every time a clean hit breaks when ordered with arms wide open, breaks the moment he hears the referee's orders and as a gentleman all the way through. At the end of the third round when his opponent was groggy from the beating he had received, O'Leary helped his opponent to his corner in exhibition of gentlemanliness seldom seen in the ring. O'Leary outpointed Woods from the very beginning and had it not been for the fact that every point in the bout in favor of Nelson was given Snyder, with at least ten points in weight in his favor during the first couple of rounds, the latter would have been given the decision. Nelson was a game fighter and took a severe beating but he was outclassed from the start.

Snyder Had the Space.

...Jan. 3.—Premier Briand and ... minister for liberated ..., will depart for Cannes this ... According to an interview ... in the Paris edition of the ... Daily Mail, the premier will ... the allied branch of conciliation ... on his arrival.

... planned for closer ties ... France and Great Britain.

"The key to the whole European situation lead to France's security is a pact of alliance with Great Britain" he said. "France has repeatedly asked for such an alliance and has made known her willingness to enter into it. It would be the best proof that our great program is not directed against our British friends. Let there be a solemn pact between Great Britain and France which will gradually absorb other alliances. Other allies can be added to from time to time under arrangements similar to that in the English treaty. But the Franco-British pact must be the basis of all of them."

Three troublesome questions will come up at the Supreme Council meeting at Cannes on which the French and British hold divergent views.

1—German indemnity. 2—France's Polish ambitions. 3—The situation in the near east.

It is taken as a foregone conclusion that M. Briand will renew the request made to his recent conference with Premier Lloyd George in London, namely, that allied fiscal commissioners control should be sent into Germany to supervise the finances of the latter nation. The British oppose any such move.

On the naval issue the British are unable to France's demands for a big fleet of submarines and light cruisers.

As to the near east, British sentiment has favored the Greeks while the French showed sympathy for the Turkish nationalists by entering into a treaty with them. The British recently arranged a large loan for Greece.

Premier Gounaris of Greece is already at Cannes to discuss the allies' plans for peace intervention between the Greeks and the Turkish nationalists.

ALLEGED CHARGES OF CHINESE REPRESENTATIVES BRINGS THE SIBERIAN QUESTION TO FORE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—Despite the denials so vehemently voiced by French and Japanese delegates to Washington that a secret agreement exists between their governments over mutual policies to be pursued in Siberia, the question was uppermost in the minds of the conference delegates today when they resumed work after the holidays.

Officially the denial of the French and Japanese have been accepted by the American government. Between the word of two recognized and friendly powers, and the word of an unrecognized, uninvited, new republic of doubtful stability, there can be but one choice so far as the United States government officially is concerned.

The publication of these alleged secret agreements by the unofficial delegates of the Far East (China) government, however, has served to draw maximum attention to the whole question of Siberia which is due to be taken up by the conference shortly. In view of the disclosures made the attitudes of the French and Japanese over the matter of a reparation pledging the powers to observe the territorial and perhaps the administrative integrity of Russia and Siberia will be watched with absorbing interest by the other powers of the conference. There were no indications today that the United States plans to take advantage of the China delegates' invitation to have their papers examined by state department representatives. As a matter of fact, there are known to be in the files of the state department's reports from American observers in the Far East which bear a general resemblance to the documents made public here in such startling fashion by the Far eastern envoys. These reports date back months ago, before the advent of the Republican administration.

Norman H. Davis, under-Secretary of State in the latter days of the Wilson administration is known to have expressed the opinion in his secret appearances before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that a Franco-Japanese "understanding" with regard to Russia and Siberia already was in existence or was being worked out.

Meanwhile Boris Sykirsky, M. Yazhoff and other members of the Far Eastern delegation here are content to rest on their oars for the time being. They reiterated today that they have other documents bearing on Franco-Japanese intrigue in the Far East, and that these maybe made public at the proper moment.

None of the other powers of the Washington conference are "officially taking any cognizance of the China disclosure," but "unofficially" the revelations are being discussed almost to the exclusion of submarines and the date of the conference adjustment two highly regarded topics of conversation for the past ten days. Opinions are privately expressed in many quarters, notably in British, Chinese and Italian, that there is some basis of truth in the reported liaison between the French and Japanese in Asia.

Adjournment Expected Soon

The conference itself moved steadily toward adjournment today. Indications are when the experts resumed the gathering up of loose ends of the naval program, that the five powered naval treaty will be ready for submission to a plenary session of the conference by the last of this week.

The one detriment factor is the Root resolution, proposing restriction that virtually kill the submarine as a legal weapon of warfare, so far only the American and British governments have approved it entirely, the Japanese, French and Italians referring it to their home governments for examination and instructions. Doubt was expressed today whether the Root resolution will be adopted as it now stands. Indications are that the French and Japanese, at least, will decline to approve it, although they have not received final instructions from their respective governments. The sentiment among the delegates here, however, is against it. The opinion was expressed in responsible quarters that the naval treaty ultimately will go no further than pledging the powers to observe existing international law as to the "visit and search" of merchant vessels by submarines in war time.

Methods of scrapping of existing warships, methods of replacement and the date on which replacement can begin are other minor points that remain to be adjusted.

It is possible, too, that consideration of Chinese problems will be resumed this week. Negotiations are under way for reopening of the China-Japanese conversations over the return of Shantung which were discontinued when a deadlock was reached over the matter of railroad control.

Davis Denies Knowledge

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 Norman H. Davis, under-Secretary of State in President Wilsons second administration today denied that he had previous knowledge of the "alleged agreements respecting Siberia given out by the representatives of the so-called Far Eastern Republic." He reaffirmed previous statements to the Senate committee on foreign relations that in the international communications conducted several months ago, Japan and France held identical views. Davis said he did not care to release any of the information given to the Senate Committee for that whatever information there was then given with regard to Japan and France maintaining identical positions in respect to those matters, would have had no reference to or information about the alleged agreements given out.

"I never heard of such agreements before" Davis said.

CONGRESS ADJOURNED FOR DAY OUT OF RESPECT PASSING OF SENATOR FROM PENNSYLVANIA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. The passing of Senator Boies Penrose and of the influence exercised on national legislation was uppermost in the minds of members of the Senate and House when Congress reconvened today after the holiday recess.

Out of respect to the memory of Penrose an adjournment of both chambers until tomorrow was taken promptly.

A realignment of Republican committee assignments made necessary by the vacancies caused by Penrose's death was well under way with Senator McCumber of North Dakota to succeed him as chairman of the all-important Senate finance committee.

Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey was securing the vacancy caused by McCumber moving up on the committee, while Republican members of the "agricultural bloc" were striving to have one of their number, notably Senator McNary of Oregon, selected for it.

Several days will probably elapse before the Republican committee on committees is able to work out a committee program which will end the scramble for committee assignments.

Six months at least of strenuous labor confronts congress with considerable less than of the utmost importance to be disposed of.

Republican and Democratic leaders are alike wondering what effect prospective tariff and other domestic legislation will have on this years congressional elections and they are both already mapping out their respective legislative course accordingly.

The first move of a political controversial nature to engage the Senate's attention will be the Ford-Newberry election contest, final consideration of which is expected to be begun, by unanimous consent, on Friday.

Both sides are claiming enough votes to either oust or uphold Senator Newberry. It is believed that the vote will be "close," although Republican leaders express confidence in their ability to muster enough votes to keep the Michigan Senator in his seat. Newberry's opponents, on the other hand, declare that the vote may be so "close" as to unseat him.

The vote will probably not come until next week, as a number of Senators, although the final debate is to be limited to one hour for each Senator, have announced their intention of discussing the charges that Newberry's election was secured by the employment of a huge "slush fund" by certain of his friends, and relatives.

The "unfinished business" of the Senate is the legislation to place a "dirt farmer" on the Federal Reserve board. By unanimous consent, final consideration of the bill is to be begun not later than 2 p. m., on January 17.

The co-called "anti-lynching" bill is one of the first measures the House will tackle. The customary appropriation bills are to be taken up subsequently until the new budget system after they are reported in turn by the House appropriations committee.

PRESIDENT CENTRAL OF GA. R. R. STATES OPTIMISTIC VIEWS

ATLANTA, Jan. 3.—Unsatisfactory business conditions last year in the South don't indicate anything fundamentally unsound in the South, said an optimistic statement issued today by W. A. Winburn, president of the Central of Georgia railway. There are many encouraging things to be expected during the new year, he declared.

Railways in the South, said Mr Winburn, have realized but two percent on their property investment, but in spite of this rate concessions have been made to some shippers. He asked for cooperation from other industries to restore normal conditions, now that the first step toward relieving the railway tax burden has been taken.

GOVERNOR SPROUL IS PICKED TO SUCCEED LATE BOIES PENROSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Governor William C. Sproul, of Pennsylvania, will be designated to succeed the late Boies Penrose as senator from that state, within a week, it was predicted today by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, following a visit to the White House.

Senator Watson's prediction took on added significance when it became known that he talked with the Pennsylvania governor over the long distance telephone last night, and again today just before going to the White house.

Administration leaders, it was learned today, have impressed upon Governor Sproul the necessity for haste in filling the vacancy caused by Senator Penrose's death. Every available Republican vote it was admitted today will be necessary to prevent the unseating of Senator Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, by a coalition of Democratic and "progressive Republican" Senators.
